Preservation foes, supporters crowd city hall

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Staff Writer

City leaders agreed Tuesday they need more work - and more community consensus - before enacting a historic preservation ordinance that's been in the works for seven years.

Even as the process lurched forward this week, it traveled only a matter of inches. Still, the document attracted an overflow audience of interested citizens who voiced strongly held beliefs on the virtues and dangers of enacting it.

Proponents and opponents of the proposal squared off in Bay St. Louis City Hall for council's workshop on Monday, and they tripled their numbers in Tuesday's turnout.

Before they left for the night, city officials promised to have copies of an updated proposal available Friday afternoon at City Hall Annex on Court Street. They also appeared committed to holding yet another public hearing on the proposal, although no hearing was scheduled.

There are powerful voices on both sides of the issue, making the process a politically sensitive one. And having prompted some seven years of debate and study,

Drainage woes may end up in litigation

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Staff Writer

Bay St. Louis City Council went into closed session Tuesday, the second time this month, to discuss possible litigation over the warranties covering a massive downtown drainage project.

Officials are concerned over the possible extent of failures underground, and whether the city could be left to pay for costly repairs.

Known as "Project C," the drain pipes were laid in place by a private contractor several years ago, under a contract costing more than $3 million. Several sinkhole areas have developed recently, possibly because a grouting method was used extensively to connect some of the pipes.

Teen's family still looking for answers in 'hit & run' death

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

On the evening of January 23, 2000, Mark Andrew "Mitch" Mitchell, 18, was tragically killed while riding his bicycle on Lakeshore Rd. His death was listed as a hit and run accident, but his parents, Mark and Mamie of Pearl River, La. feel that the incident was no accident and still hope that someone will come forward with information, so that the family and friends can finally put the incident to rest. The family holds a candlelight vigil at the scene of the accident each year.

Chief Investigator Bob Lambert of the Hancock County Sheriff's Department handled the investigation, but Lambert is no longer with the department. Investigator Kenny Hurt said on Wednesday that the case is inactive and will likely remain so unless new evidence surfaces.

The Mitchell's have asked that if anyone has any information, no matter how insignificant that they call them personally at 985-863-9006 or write to Mark and Mamie Mitchell at P.O. Box 1423, Pearl River, La. 70452.

No one has been charged in the case.

HMC to host dog bite prevention seminar on Feb. 8

THE SEA COAST ECHO

A free bite prevention seminar will be held Sunday, Feb. 8, 2004 at 2:00 PM in the Hancock Medical Center Education classroom. Over 4 million people are bitten by dogs in the United States each year. More than half of them are children, and about a dozen people die annually as a result of dog bite injuries. Many of these bites are preventable.

In order to raise community awareness of this problem, a local dog trainer, a veterinarian, and a nurse have teamed up to present this program aimed at reducing the odds that you or a family member will become another bite statistic.

"GOOD DOG!" Dog Training instructor Paula Leoni will share training techniques for your own dog, and teach safe handling methods and behavior for adults and children when around dogs. Dr. Charles West, DVM, will discuss veterinary medical aspects pertaining to aggressive behaviors and biting in dogs. Dovie Mays, CRNA, NP, will demonstrate basic first aid for bite wounds, and present information on appropriate treatment if you are bitten.

Friends of the Animal Shelter will provide refreshments. Please call Paula at 466-0935 or HMC at 467-8727 for more information.

Developer has big 'mini-mall' plans for old Wal-Mart building

BY SHANNON JENKINS
Staff Writer

Worries about whether the Wal-Mart building in Waveland will remain vacant should be laid to rest. Benjamin Goldmann, a representative of the California-based developer that purchased the building, on Tuesday confirmed plans to revive the space.

He stressed that the project is still in planning stages, and plans are subject to change.

Recently, The Sea Coast Echo reported that a branch of Pearl River Community College may settle into the space. If the college does choose this location, it will not be the only tenant in the 70,000-square-foot structure.

Although he could not reveal potential tenants, Goldmann shared some possible ideas and designs about how Urban Properties, the developer, intends to use the space.

He said Urban Properties wants to have a mix of local businesses and national chains and franchises, which carry brand name products. Space for non-commercial uses is also planned, which would include the college branch.

Currently, there are three larger spaces planned between 5,000 and 20,000 square feet and 10 to 15 smaller retail spaces at approximately 1,000 square feet. Goldmann said a tenant could take multiple spaces to have more room.

For example, Goldmann said "a tenant could have one 2,000-square-foot space (or even 3,000), rather than

Residential development under way now in Bay

BY MARY C. SEILEY
Staff Writer

Site preparation is underway for a low density commercial and residential development just west of Riemann's Funeral Home on Highway 90 in Bay St. Louis.

Robert Kane of McDonald's Realty said a group of local investors, Seminary Properties, LLC, plans to develop about 11 acres of the tract. The remainder of the property, featuring marshlands, will not be developed, he said.

Clearing is in progress for the initial part of the development, for four lots of low density office commercial properties, Kane said. About 15 single family residential properties on large tracts will be sited on the rear portion of the tract, he said. Kane said while a number of development possibilities were studied by investors, it was agreed that a low density plan would be less risky and have less impact than a higher density approach featuring townhouses or a larger scale commercial enterprise.

"A lot of locals are very pleased that this building is sold because its not the norm. A big problem across America is a lot of stores like this sit empty," Goldmann said. "The support we've received (from the community) has been phenomenal."

The longer these buildings sit, he said, the more money it costs to fix it up and the harder it is to find tenants to commit to a redevelopment because the site has a stigma of failure.

"It's exciting for the community to know that the building has been purchased so early," said Tish

Williams, executive director of Hancock County Chamber of Commerce. "It's good that the developer has seen this potential and has invested in this community."

Williams said Urban Properties "is serious about making this happen." She claimed this was evident because the developer placed Goldmann in the area to conduct a building consensus to see what the community wants and needs.

"The chamber has played a role in helping (Goldmann) become integrated with the community," she said. "City officials have done the same."

"We believe in the county," Goldmann said. "That's why we're here. We are looking to do something that is good for everyone."

Goldmann said the developer plans to start building very eminently and hopes to have tenants open by early summer. For more information about retail spaces, contact Benjamin Goldmann at 228-463-9841 or bgoldmann@comcast.net.

Cuevas' Quotes

by Ellis C. Cuevas
Publisher Emeritus

Mardi Gras is fast approaching and many plans are being made for participants in parades.

The kids do not need to be forgotten, as on Feb. 14, all children are invited to participate in the annual Krewe of Kids parade in the Cedar Point area of Bay St. Louis.

Kids use all types of transportation, except motorized vehicles. Wagons, wheel barrows, bicycles, tricycles, carriages, etc. are the mode for transportation, in addition to walking.

For many, many years, Lisa Cowand has been the organizer, and now she is in need of applications from boys and girls ages 5 through 12 to select a king and queen through a random drawing.

Saturday is the deadline for entries for the kingship and queenship drawing. Names need to be submitted to Lisa Cowand, 1005 Dunbar Ave., Bay St. Louis, MS 39520. For details call 467-0506.

Bay Waveland School District Superintendent Kim Stasny will serve as the Grand Marshall.

The parade forms at North Bay Elementary, travels Dunbar to Dunbar Village for a toast to the Krewe and the seniors, down Dunbar to Boardman, Boardman to Leonard, Leonard to Dunbar and returns to the school to hisband.

The Krewe of Kids parade is a great thing for our younger citizens, and the parade is really enjoyed by the parents, grandparents, relatives, friends and spectators.

I know we just celebrated Christmas a little over a month ago, but we have another celebration of "Christmas" coming on April 24.

This celebration is Christmas in April, a time when many in the community come together to repair and rehabilitate the homes of low income and elderly of the community.

Christmas in April was brought to Hancock County in 1996 by Margaret Hadden, who had participated several years ago in the program in Harrison County.

Dozens of deserving folks have benefited in having better living conditions in Hancock County by worked performed by business, civic, industry, churches, hospital and individual groups.

In the first year, only three homes received face-lifting, but that number has increased each year.

At this time of year, Christmas in April is seeking several things.

First there is a need of volunteers from the organizations and individuals of the community.

All types of trades can be used, and volunteers do not need to be skilled at home repairs, but any skills will be utilized.

Hadden is still very active in Christmas in April. Hancock County, as she acts as spokesperson.

Second there is a need of low income elderly and disabled homeowners who are not able to do the work themselves to have their names submitted by a church, community organization and service groups to refer house to Christmas in April. These will be discussed by the board of directors on various qualification criteria as to whether the house meets eligibility criteria.

Third there is a need of funds to purchase supplies. These can be from churches, businesses, corporations, foundations, service organizations and clubs, associations and individuals.

There is also a need for the donations of supplies for the necessary work.

Christmas in April does repairs in the following areas: carpentry, plumbing, electrical, plastering, painting, weather stripping, as well as trash removal and cleaning. So all types of supplies can be used. The local Christmas in April is a 501(c)3 organization.

If you would like to make a donation, make it to: Christmas in April, P.O. Box 483, Bay St. Louis, MS. 39520. For details, call Margaret Hadden at 467-1082.

Immigration proposal leaves workers, law behind

There is no mistaking why there are so many people trying to immigrate into the United States year after year.

This country continues to be the land of opportunity where anyone can come to make the most of their talents and ambition. Those who wish to live in the U.S. must abide by our laws. These laws provide the framework for a fair and equitable society that has enabled our country to flourish like none other in the world.

IN CONGRESS

By Representative
Gene Taylor

I do not believe it is in the best interest of our country to begin rewarding those who break the law. I think the majority of Americans would agree with me. Yet, this is exactly what would happen if the latest immigration proposal from the Bush Administration becomes a reality.

The proposal would allow 8 to 10 million illegal immigrants, working illegally in the United States, to pay a fee and sign up for a temporary worker program.

Those who would qualify for the proposal would be guilty of breaking the law twice. First, they would be in the country illegally. Second, they would be working in the country illegally. There would be no repercussions for their prior illegal actions.

Through no merit of their own their status will go from illegal to legal. This is, in effect, amnesty Scenic by-ways plan wrong for Beach Blvd.

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce avowed stance of social activism in defiance of area citizens was demonstrated in a public hearing in Hancock County this week.

In a presentation made by Chamber president, Jody Compretta, it was graphically demonstrated that it has veered so far off its primary course of promoting area business that it can now be called anti-American and a promoter of the seizing of private property rights of the citizens of Hancock County.

The public hearing was in response to what is euphemistically called the Hancock County Greenways Project and is concerned with creating a Scenic Byways Program Corridor Management Plan. Scenic Byways is a new State program of which Jody Compretta is a member. The program receives federal funds. It was explained that the program, under the auspices of the Federal Highway Program, is ostensibly a plan for the protection of qualities important to the community, is a way to guarantee values will stay in place, and will encompass the full length of Beach Blvd. in Hancock County.

The approximately 100 to 150 landowners who attended the meeting voted 99 percent to not participate in the program. They clearly felt the federal government always imposes new regulations whenever they give money to communities. The landowners asked who authorized the project? Compretta said he was putting it forward as a way to help the community get federal funds. Even the Hancock County Board of Supervisor members present did not know about the project.

It is unconscionable that an unelected member of our community, representing a social activist organization, can potentially seize our private property rights, impose federal regulations, cause us to change our life styles, and cause tax dollars to be spent, just so they can impose their idea of what qualities are important to our community. We are fortunate to have a Board of Supervisors that listens to the people and not to social activists.

The Hancock County School Board is quietly working on a policy to impose school uniforms on the students in the Hancock County public schools.

I called the school board office to try to get the facts, and was politely told that "they are not releasing any information at this time".

From the small amount of information that I have been able to obtain, the new rules will compel all students to wear clothes from a list of four "approved" uniform colors and two "approved" uniform styles. These clothes are available from several sources such as Wal-Mart, J. C. Penny, and Sears, but are typically from the "uniform" section of each store.

for the 8 - 10 million people who are illegally living and working in this country.

The new temporary worker status would be for a three year period that could be renewed at least once for an additional three years.

Also, if a foreigner outside the U.S. has a job offer, then they can apply for temporary worker status. In either case the employer must prove that no Americans are willing to accept the job.

Making sure employers stay honest about offering preference to citizen workers will be, yet, another job for an already overworked immigration system.

Also, the President proposes to expand the number of green cards granted annually.

Increased illegal immigration may be the principal product of this plan.

The policy both broadens a tried and true path for illegal immigration, and paves the way for a new avenue of illegal access to the American job market. Now, even more immigrants will be able to come here, over stay their visas, and disappear into American society. Also, this policy establishes a precedent of amnesty for the next generation. Why worry about immigrating legally, when an amnesty is just around the corner?

As this plan increases the number of foreigners working here legally and illegally, there will be more negative repercussions for the American citizen looking for work.

The Bush plan will bring in more workers at a time when the country already has an uncomfortably high unemployment rate and jobs continuing to move overseas. Easier access to American jobs for foreigners can also drive down wages and working conditions for American workers.

As immigrants come in willing to do the job for less money in a harsher work environment, American citizens will have to settle for less to keep their job.

Ultimately, the Bush plan creates a bad situation for the American worker who has already been hurt by trade policy moving jobs overseas. At best, the American worker will be doing the same job for less money; at worst, he will simply be replaced.

The plan outlined by the President in his Jan. 7 address would, also, allow temporary workers to apply for citizenship "in the normal way."

By virtue of being enrolled in the temporary worker program, each of the 8 - 10 million people I am speaking of will have broken the law twice. Then, they will be allowed to apply for citizenship "in the normal way", despite their infringements.

What does this policy say to all those who have gone through the proper, legal channels of immigrating into the United States? Millions have waited and navigated the immigration process in accordance with the laws of our country to join family members, start jobs, and build dreams. With this new policy there is no justice for those who broke or obeyed the law.

These expansions of our immigration policy will be expensive, hard to enforce, and a plausible security threat. In the summer of 2001 President Bush and Mexican President Vicente Fox were proposing a similar type of amnesty in the form of an expanded worker-visa.

On September 11, 2001 the nation became very critical of expanding an immigration system that already seemed overloaded. I hope the nation will meet this new proposal with the same amount of scrutiny. We have seen the disastrous effects of a border that is too permeable and a system that is over-worked.

I am opposed to any amnesty program for illegal immigrants and will continue to support efforts to strengthen our borders and protect American jobs.

Any student that goes to school wearing a style or color of clothing that is not on the "uniform" list will be removed from class, sent to the office, then their parents will be called and told to "bring their child into compliance with the Code".

I don't know about anyone else, but the last time I checked, this was still AMERICA. My great-great-grandparents came here for FREEDOM!

To me, FREEDOM is the basic ideal that we should all be striving for. Any restrictions on FREEDOM should be resisted as strongly as we can, because once a FREEDOM is taken away, it is NEVER restored.

FREEDOM! This extends to what people choose to wear.

I can understand the concerns that school officials have, and I agree that some reasonable rules for clothing are needed.

I also understand that given the wide range of student's attitudes, some of them dress to deliberately attract attention of one sort or another, and that sometimes this is a distraction.

It is not easy to design a set of 'reasonable' dress rules when the underlying school policy is that all rules are inflexible, and the school teachers and principals have no leeway or room to exercise their own judgment.

A "uniforms only" rule is very easy to write, and requires no judgment or flexibility to enforce. Indeed, judgment and flexibility are conspicuous by their absence.

But the very idea that "all that is not approved is forbidden" is abhorrent to me. It is very close to the totalitarian ideal that "all that is not compulsory is forbidden."

I am old enough to recall that this was once tried on a very large scale. The leaders of Communist China made it part of their "Great Leap Forward".

All of China wore the same gray "uniform" tunics and baggy "uniform" trousers. Now, 40 years later, China is finally recovering, and we see pictures of the Chinese people wearing all manner of colorful clothing. Has the Spirit of Chairman Mao been reincarnated in Hancock County?

Uniforms work fine for the military, where everyone is required to work and to obey in the same manner. They are fine for private schools where the parents voluntarily choose to send their children.

However, for most of us, sending our children to public school is not a matter of choice. Unless we have the money for private school, or the time and energy for home schooling, we are compelled by law to send our children to the public schools.

Given that the students have no choice but to attend the schools, I believe that FREEDOM, to choose the clothes in the colors and styles that they wish to wear, is far more important than imposing uniforms just to make the job of enforcing a dress code easier!

By the way, will the uniform code be imposed on teachers?

Will the uniform code be imposed on school administrators?

Will the uniform code be imposed on school board members while they are attending school board meetings?

Will the uniform code be imposed on the school superintendent?

One argument for 'uniforms' (put forth by the uniform companies, of course) is that they "help the educational process."

Aside from the gobbledegook, if wearing uniforms helps people to think better, then the first people to be subject to a uniform policy should be the school board. Lord knows they need to be at their best when making policy that affects us all!

If you or someone in your family attends a Hancock County public school, I suggest that you call your school board members and express your opinion on this.

According to the 2003-2004 student handbook, the Hancock County School Board members are: Mr. Larry Peterson, Ms. Cheryl Bennett, Mr. Morgan Ladner, Ms. Peggy Ladner and Mr. Larry Seal

Your weary hours and days of pain,
 Your troubled nights are past;
 And in our aching hearts we know
 You have found sweet rest at last.
 We do not need a special day
 To bring you to our minds;
 The days we do not think of you
 Are very hard to find.
 They say time heals all sorrow,
 And helps us to forget;
 But time so far has only proved
 How much we miss you yet.

Thank you for the lasting impact that your love left on our lives. Enjoy your

Gaits to host volunteer training

Gaits to Success, which operates South Mississippi's only therapeutic horseback riding program for the handicapped, needs more volunteers to help support the program. Gaits is a member of the North America Riding for the Handicapped Association.

The nonprofit organization operates out of a stable in Kiln in Kiln-Picayune Road about 1.5 miles west of Mississippi 603. It has a fenced, covered arena and handicapped-accessible restrooms.

Volunteers help out by working with horses and riders. But horsemanship skills are not necessary to volunteer. Gaits also needs help with publicity, fundraising, special events, etc.

Gaits will have an orientation session and training workshop at the stable from 2 to 2:30 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 31. Carolyn Rhodes and Kathleen Mosteller will demonstrate proper methods and handling of children and horses. They also will provide additional tips for seasoned volunteers. Refreshments will be served. For more information about the program, or to sign up to volunteer, call 467-1402.

Preserve -- proposal draws fire, praise

the proposed ordinance has some council members apparently confounded.

"The more I fool with this ordinance, the more of a fool I feel like," said council member at-large Bill Taylor. "I swear, that's the truth. I'm sorry I ever fooled with it," he told council members Monday.

Taylor has worked extensively on the document. He compiled his own version of an ordinance months ago, using state preservation officials' guidelines, but toning down some of its language to appease opponents. Last Sunday night, he telephoned 41 owners of historic homes in town to try to gauge public opinion.

Taylor said he found 12 in favor, 16 against, 12 with no opinion and one who simply hung up on him.

Ward 2 council member James Thriffley, whose district includes substantial historical stock, has been pushing to enact the plan. But he also pushed Monday to find some level of agreement between proponents and opponents "to get us off dead center." Ward 4 council member Bobby Compretta, whose district also encompasses a trove of historic properties, said he will not vote on the ordinance unless another public hearing is held.

The proposed ordinance would create a council-appointed commission to oversee alterations and demolitions of historic structures, as well as new construction in historic districts. It would not regulate paint colors.

Before the commission would have any work to do, however, council would need to establish boundary lines for historic districts. Historically significant properties or sites which aren't included in official preservation districts could be put under the commission's jurisdiction separately.

Hancock County Historical Society executive director Charles Gray said the pending regulations are as lax as any to be found in the 35 such ordinances now in effect in Mississippi. He urged the city to adopt the proposal, at least as a starting point.

The system could be amended or abolished later, he noted. For starters, Gray suggested the city could designate a beachfront historic district, running between St. Charles St. and the Bay-

Waveland Yacht Club along Beach Boulevard.

Of some 44 houses in that area, he said, there have been almost no changes or alterations since the properties qualified for listing on the National Register of Historic Places in 1977.

Preservationist Dorothy McLemore said she knows from personal experience that the proposed regulations are nothing like those in effect in New Orleans' French Quarter. "People are frightened," she said, because they fear the red tape that Quarter residents face.

"This is nothing like that ... or like Charleston (S.C.)," McLemore said. She termed the Bay's proposed regulations "user friendly," and said homeowners would welcome the protections the ordinance would offer for property values.

But there are historic homeowners equally opposed. Robert Kane and Chuck Breath both spoke against the proposal -- and said Gray himself pointed out that the Bay is well preserved without the overlay of an ordinance.

Real estate values are driven by supply and demand, said Kane. "In Bay St. Louis, supply is limited and the demand is high, and the prices are going up," he said.

He said he is highly concerned over the degree to regulation that the ordinance contains, and the level of control it would give to the appointed commission.

Although the commission's actions would be appealable to City Council, Kane said there's no guarantee of how reasonable the board will be, or what a future City Council will want to impose.

He read aloud from the proposed ordinance's jurisdiction over exterior details, such as the style of windows and doors, landscaping, pools, and paving.

"Once you adopt this ... you are addressing property rights as opposed to preservation," said Kane. "And that's a very scary thing to me."

Gray was stunned to learn Tuesday that council was not going to vote on the document as they had previously indicated. "It's time to do it," he said. "We have come and come and come" to City Hall regarding it, he said.

Others warned that the city is seeing irreversible damage to its charming nature while pondering the details of the ordinance. Some old buildings have been torn down, and others have been lost to "demolition by neglect," council was told.

Architect and preservationist Kevin Fitzpatrick pointed to a pre-engineered, pre-fabricated metal building that was erected on Main Street a couple of years ago, saying it was "an abomination...totally out of character" with the historic downtown. A preservation commission, he said, could avert another "modernist monstrosity" from being constructed in the historic area.

He said opponents were wrong to view the ordinance as "another form of government intrusion." Rather, he said, it offers property owners the same kinds of protections that zoning ordinances do.

Letitia Galbraith, a Third Street resident, said the ordinance is needed to protect the way Bay St. Louis looks, "the way its viewed, its street-scape, the size of buildings. This is an old, old town and it has a character which is very fragile and can be lost," she said. "That's what it's all about. I have invested in this community and I want to protect my property values."

Galbraith said she knows preservation matters well. She worked for the National Trust for Historic Preservation for some 17 years, lived in historic Charleston, S.C., and recently lived in Ocean Springs, MS, where she served on that city's preservation commission.

Others view the preservation ordinance prospect very differently. Basil Kennedy told council that while the city "needs something to help protect its antiquity," he objects to the idea of the government requiring "certificates of appropriateness" for what's done in the historic areas.

City attorney John Scaife went through the ordinance proposal in detail with council Monday night, suggesting changes to ensure that it conforms with state law.

The newly revised document will be scrutinized by state Department of Archives and History officials, and put up for further consideration at a time to be announced.

Partners -- new 'umbrella' group forms

Each plan represents extensive research by the three groups, with one common goal, to improve the image and opportunities within the county by joining forces to ensure growth and prosperity.

"This was a meeting for the different groups to get together and talk about what is important for the future," said Chuck Benvenuti. "I think we can all agree on the importance of education, jobs and the quality of life as the three most important goals."

"We need to motivate and excite our children about math and sciences from the elementary level because the jobs that will be coming into our county at Stennis Space Center will be jobs that require this kind of knowledge."

Highlights of the Space Center's plan include:

- Doubling the number of jobs at the center by 2010, adding 4,500 jobs to the marketplace, with 500 new jobs by 2007; developing a national science, technology and education center on 1-10 on 200 acres purchased near the Hancock County Welcome Center. The center's goal would be the education of students to pursue careers in science, technology, engineering and math. The goal is to break ground for the center in January of 2006 and open the school the following January, said director Tom Donaldson.

The Space Center's plan seeks to increase the quality of life, education, economic prosperity and leadership within the community. Key priorities include establishing regular communication among government and business, leadership training and preparing the community for growth. The center also hopes to take a more active role in area schools with the goal of improving performance, the plan says, and reduce operation costs at the center.

Currently Stennis has a direct economic impact on the region of $559 million dollars annually, said Benvenuti, representing salaries of $1 billion, retail sales of $429 million and sales tax revenues of $30 million.

Highlights of the Partners for Stennis plan include:

- Support for the development of the I-10 center, improving the educational performance in area schools, improving the quality of life in the Stennis region and working with the Space Center to create more jobs.

Partners seeks to integrate Stennis employees and their families into the local community with a welcoming mentor program for new personnel; improve the appearance of the area, especially gateways and greenway areas with litter control, preservation and conservation of natural resources; establish high quality housing; increase recreational and cultural opportunities and launch a marketing campaign to promote the area.

Highlights of the Port and Harbor Commission include:

- A focus on technology as well as cultural components to steer the county to become a center for business and industry and a major resort area, providing affordable residential development, providing quality education at every level, recruiting new business and industry to Port Bienville and Stennis International Airport and developing infrastructure to keep pace with growth.

A few of goals the plan seeks to achieve are the recruiting of new business and industry and promotion and support of existing businesses both small and large, promotion of the county as a resort destination, establishment of an annual arts and music festival, support of arts organizations, enhancement of the image of the county and the improvement of communications between county entities, business and the public.

"What is important is to build relationships to accomplish goals. All those involved and especially the Chamber and Tish Williams have been instrumental in bringing us together," said Benvenuti. "We will work together in whatever way is necessary to move the county forward ... if you don't know what you want or where you want to be going, then you can't get there."

week that city workers will perform a visual inspection of the pipes, and poke at the grouted areas to see if the material is holding up as advertised. During the last executive session on Jan. 12, council members Doug Seal and Bill Taylor lost a bid to seek engineering firm proposals for help in inspecting the entire project.

In other matters Tuesday, council:

- Set a March 2 public hearing concerning debris piled up at 203 Citizen St. Last year, council hired a contractor to demolish a dilapidated house on the property. The demolition came only after a protracted dispute with the property owner, Chris Lagarde, who is an environmental aide for U.S. Rep. Gene Taylor. City officials say they have received numerous complaints about the current condition of the tract.

- Awarded retired postal service employee Donald Strong a proclamation of appreciation. Strong retired last July, after some 38 years with the U.S. Postal Service.

--Reappointed Robert Kane to a seat on the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission. Kane's term will expire with that of the governor.

The Bay St. Louis City Council on Tuesday awarded retired postal service employee Donald Strong -- seen here with several family members -- a proclamation of appreciation. Strong retired last July, after 38 years with the U.S. Postal Service.

Bay St. Louis native publishes electronic database

Emily Lorraine de Montluzin, a professor of history at Francis Marion University, has published an electronic database, "Attributions of Authorship in the 'Gentleman's Magazine,' 1731-1868: An Electronic Union List."

The work is a fully searchable, database that provides attributions for 25,585 anonymous contributions in the "Gentleman's Magazine." The electronic book was published by the Bibliographical Society of the University of Virginia and can be found online at <http://etext.lib.virginia.edu/bsuva/gm2>.

From its beginning in 1731 until 1856, when the descendants of its long-time editor John Nichols relinquished ownership, the "Gentleman's Magazine" was one of the most influential periodicals in England. Because many of the contributions were anonymous or signed in a way that obscured authorship, numerous attempts have been made to provide reliable attributions.

The Union List encompasses finds from three separate earlier projects and provides thousands of new attributions of authorship together with an expanded and revised introduction. The largest component (originally published in 1999) is a recasting of materials in James M. Kuist's "The Nichols File of the 'Gentleman's Magazine,'" which on its print publication in 1982 made available some 14,000 attributions identified by members of the Nichols family in a staff copy of the periodical.

Through additional research, de Montluzin added 4,000 more attributions to Kuist's list, publishing those authorial identifications in an electronic database in 1996. Over the years, many other scholars have made attributions of authorship, and de Montluzin culled some 1,850 of those finds from about five dozen separate publications, publishing them in an electronic database in 1997. The Union List consists of a thorough revision and integration of those three earlier databases and adds more than 5,000 finds to the total. As a result, 25,585 attributions across 137 years of the magazine's life are now available in a single, searchable database.

"Attributions of Authorship in the 'Gentleman's Magazine,' 1731-1868: An Electronic Union List" is searchable by keyword, volume number, page number, date range, title, author, and pseudonym.

A native of Bay St. Louis, de Montluzin earned her bachelor's degree from Newcomb

GROWING UP AT

While other children were playing baseball or tag in the park, Bay St. Louis resident Eddie Davis Jr. was smoozing with celebrities.

Davis grew up in the glamorous world that his father Eddie Sr. and partner Leon Enken, had created at the successful night club they opened in Manhattan in the 20's. The club was a popular hangout for all the stars of the era.

Leon and Eddie met in Atlantic City before opening the club as a speakeasy with a loan from a former boss, who owned the famous Cotton Club. The first venture opened in a five story brownstone on West 52nd St. in Manhattan. In 1933 the club moved down the street to a larger building across from the 21 Club, which had opened a couple of years after Leon and Eddie's.

"I remember forever being taken to the club, to have new pictures made or to meet people," said Eddie Jr., who remembers in particular having a picture made with Bob Hope and being taken out of bed at times to go meet a celebrity, much to his mother Clementine's disapproval.

Hope and his wife were family friends and even stayed with the Davis' in the 1930's during a lull in Hope's career. A new Broadway play kick started him on his way, but the families remained friends for life.

Eddie Jr. remembers his father as a generous soul who was always ready to lend a helping hand.

"Every Thanksgiving and during the holidays during the war years dad opened the place and fed all the service men for free. Only service men were allowed in that day," he said. Eddie Sr. had served in the army in World War I.

Leon and Eddie split their talents to make the club a success, said Eddie Jr. Eddie Sr. was the entertainer and Leon concentrated his talents in the kitchen, supervising the creation of the excellent dishes served at the club.

Eddie Sr. specialized in singing his comedic versions of popular songs, accompanied by a piano player. He was also a successful actor and performed at Carnegie Hall. He had a remarkable

Put Rajun Cajun on 2004 wish list

In the first year the Rajun Cajun gets established nicely and for most of the summer sends up shooting star-like stalks topped with brilliant red blossoms. By the third year the clump has enlarged considerably, yielding dozens of flower stalks at once.

The Rajun Cajun - ruellia really impressed me last summer and makes it high on my list for the landscape in 2004. I have grown this fiery red flower before but as usual, it is other gardeners' applications or companions that really cause my excitement.

Rajun Cajun is known botanically as Ruellia elegans and was known for years as elegant ruellia.

It was in need of a marketing name and obviously someone from our neighbor state did just that.

When this little red ruellia first showed up in the marketplace, everyone assumed it was not cold-hardy here.

We were certainly wrong -- Rajun Cajun handles both cold and hot weather like a champ.

The big mistake was judging by its first-year performance. Gardeners everywhere are guilty of such quick judgments on a variety of plants.

If we can keep the "three year" rule in mind, we all will be better horticulturalists.

In the first year the Rajun Cajun gets established nicely and for most of the summer sends up shooting star-like stalks topped with brilliant red blossoms.

The problem is there aren't very many flowers in the first year. By the third year the clump has enlarged considerably, yielding dozens of flower stalks at once.

If you think you've heard of ruellia before, you're probably thinking of the purple or pink Mexican petunia. This ruellia has become a staple in the Southern garden and is on the slightly aggressive side.

Ruellias actually are not related to petunias at all. Petunias are in the family solanaceae, making them related to tomatoes, peppers and egg-

'Lucy Left 45 Minutes Ago'

creative JUICE

This art series features one piece of work by a local artist and reveals the creative process behind that work.

This week, photographer B.R. Hawkins discusses the inspiration behind her photograph "Lucy Left 45 Minutes Ago." This series runs every other Thursday.

Artists interested in having one of their works featured should contact Shannon Jenkins at 228-467-5474 or by e-mail at rsjecho@yahoo.com.

B.R. HAWKINS

- Photographer
- Native of Bradenton Beach, Fla.
- Resident of Waveland
- Work found in private collections and current issues of Art Gulf Coast Magazine

Echo: Where did the inspiration for this work come from?

Hawkins: Once I was a reporter for the Lake Charles American Press. I went to work at 4 a.m. and left work around noon most days.

The schedule took some getting used to and for the longest time I could fall asleep most anywhere.

I was washing clothes at the laundry mat one afternoon after work and fell sound asleep in a corner while my clothes were washing.

A lady woke me up and told me that my clothes were in dryer seven, eight and nine and that I owed her $5.75. (She had taken them out of the washer and put them in dryers for me while I slept.)

And, she said, if anybody asked, tell them Lucy left 45 minutes ago. I gave her money and thanked her and have always wondered if she were Lucy.

Echo: What do you like most about this work and why?

Hawkins: The lighting. I love the way the lighting almost dictates the composition. The glass on the dryer doors, the chrome and the concrete floor all reflect the lighting in degrees of contrast.

Echo: What is unique about this artwork?

Hawkins: The subject matter isn't one you see everyday.

Echo: Why did you select this piece to talk about?

Hawkins: It is one of my favorites and it is a good illustration of what I try to accomplish with my photographs. I really want to shoot photographs that tell a story and have a universal theme.

Echo: What feelings do you think this piece evokes?

Hawkins: Humor first because of the title -- "Lucy Left 45 Minutes Ago," and second, everyone has washed and dried clothes in a laundry mat at one time or another. We all know what those metal dryers look, feel and sound like. I think most people have some personal experience with the subject.

Echo: What single element makes this piece interesting to you?

Hawkins: It leaves you wondering who is Lucy.

BSLLT begins process of installing new seats

About 20 volunteers showed up last Saturday to help with the "Please Take a Seat" campaign at the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre.

Workers pulled up the old seats in the playhouse at 301 Boardman Ave. while others pressure washed and painted seats plucked from the demolished New Orleans Aurora Cinema.

Another work day is planned for Jan. 31 from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Workers will install the first three rows of refurbished seats.

Volunteers are asked to wear painting clothes and work gloves and bring rags.

There will be a job for everyone, so bring the kids and grandparents.

fondly. She was a believer in travel as a way of broadening people's minds, he said. While Eddie Sr. was busy running the night club, the family often traveled alone, with Eddie Sr. joining them when he could. The family had a beach house in Cuba, the gift of a sugar cane baron, who had visited the nightclubs.

And even though her husband was constantly surrounded by beautiful starlets, Clementine was never jealous, said Eddie Jr. They had a wonderful relationship, he said of the marriage that lasted for over 60 years till Clementine's death in 1981. Eddie Sr. passed away in 1987.

The Davis', Eddie Jr. and wife Wendy moved to Mississippi when Eddie Jr. moved here to work as a dealer a casino in Tunica. They fell in love with the coast and decided to make another move.

Eddie Jr. still works as a part time dealer at Casino Magic and attends USM where he is working on a master's degree in history.

They are the proud parents and grandparents of a family who have all carried on the tradition of entertainment through their musical and dancing talents.

memory for lyrics and won several awards in the city for entertainer of the year, in competition with his friend and colleague Joe E. Lewis, who won the award on alternate years throughout the 1930's, said Eddie Jr.

As a regular feature at the club every Sunday night was "Celebrity Night" with performances by such greats as Jackie Gleason, Pearl Bailey, Burl Ives, and Skitch Henderson. The evening would typically go on until 3 or 4 a.m. in the morning. On many other evenings Eddie Sr. would perform at 10 p.m., and 12, 2, and 4 a.m.

In the early 1940's Leon and Eddie also opened a club in Palm Beach and the Davis' divided their time between the two locations. Palm Beach was never as glamorous however, said Eddie Jr.

Every New Year's Eve the whole family, grandparents, aunts, uncles and kids all went to the club and sat at the same table, "in the nowhere zone," said Eddie Jr. The customers got the best tables, but the night was still special.

Finally in 1953, just after Eddie Jr. left for college, Leon and Eddie's closed its doors. "He was tired," said Eddie Jr. of his father. He was offered a very lucrative position in Las Vegas, but turned it down. It was the end of an era.

Many years later Eddie Jr. was visiting a New York club and ran into Joe E. Lewis. Another regular at Leon and Eddie's was also there, Frank Sinatra.

He remembered Eddie Jr. as a kid and invited him to share dinner and later drinks at the Copa, a lovely evening and a lovely memory.

While the club played a large part in childhood memories, Eddie Jr. also remembers his mother plants, while the Ruellia is in the acanthaceae family with members like the thunbergia, or black-eyed Susan vine. Ruellias as a group are plants that make everyone look like they have garnered the green thumb.

Ruellias like the Rajun Cajun grow best in full sun, but I have seen some remarkable plantings in Georgia that received quite a bit of shade and still bloomed profusely. They thrive in moist, well-drained, organic-rich soils but perform well in poorer soils, too. Highly rich soils tend to offer the ideal habitat for aggressive spreading of ruellias, but the Rajun Cajun is more mannered so far.

The dark-green foliage and red flowers offer some unique companion-planting opportunities. One combination that caught my imagination this past summer was with Escapade Blue plumbago. The sky blue of the plumbago and the red of the ruellia almost looked patriotic.

The combination planting that I liked even better was with a gold variegated duranta. This glossy gold and green duranta, also called pigeon berry, is about as new in the market as the Rajun Cajun. All I can say is that you would have to see it to believe its beauty.

Besides being an asset in the perennial border, ruellias definitely shine when planted as an accent or in mass.

They are also easy to propagate -- divide clumps, take root cuttings or plant by seed. Stems are easy to root in moist soil or sand. Another big plus is that they are disease- and pest-free unless I coax a butterfly's off-spring to munch on one.

The Rajun Cajun will be for sale this spring. Be sure to put it on your wish list. You'll be glad you did.

De Montluzin has taught in the History Department at Francis Marion University since 1974. She is the author of six earlier books identifying anonymous and pseudonymous contributors to the "Anti-Jacobin Review," the "Gentleman's Magazine" and the "European Magazine," as well as articles concerning 18th- and 19th-century British press history.

De Montluzin, along with FMU professor of business administration Fred David, was named an FMU Board of Trustees Research Scholar when that designation was cre-

"The Research Scholar program allows outstanding scholars such as Dr. de Montluzin even more time to devote to research," said FMU president Fred Carter. "She is a tremendous asset to our faculty and all of us at FMU are very proud of her academic accomplishments."

Olde Towne Players debuts with 'The Laramie Project'

BY NAN EHRBRIGHT
Contributing Writer

On Oct. 6, 1998, a cyclist found University of Wyoming gay student Matthew Shepard tied to a fence outside Laramie, brutally beaten and unconscious. Two days later, two young men were arrested on kidnapping, aggravated robbery and attempted murder charges. Shepard never regained consciousness and died on Oct. 12.

The incident thrust the community — a theretofore quiet town of 26,687 people surrounded by prairie and cattle ranches and dotted with fast-food restaurants — into the unrelenting glare of a national media spotlight that changed its name from the "gem city of the plains" to "hate crime capital of America."

In November, 1998, five members of New York City's Tectonic Theatre arrived in Laramie for a year-long study of how the incident affected the town. They interviewed shopkeepers, teachers, students, bartenders, social workers, ministers and other residents.

"The Laramie Project" is the result of those interviews, written by Moises Kaufman in collaboration with the other four members of Tectonic Theatre.

A film of the play was selected as the opening night premiere for the 2002 Sundance Film Festival.

As Kaufman explains in the play, "This is not about the case. This is about the town: why did this happen here, what are people saying, how do they feel and think about what happened."

Olde Towne Players, the Coast's new community theater, will present "The Laramie Project" as its debut production at 8 p.m. Jan. 30 and 31 and 2 p.m. Feb. 1 at Serenity Gallery, 126 Main St., Bay St. Louis.

Serenity owner Jerry Dixon, a staunch supporter of the arts, has been generous in allowing Olde Towne Players to use his gallery for organizational meetings, auditions, rehearsals and performances.

Production designer Ray Kutos of Pass Christian, who is also a veteran actor and director, has designed the set, which will include a small stage and flats, as well as the lighting and music.

Director Sherry Schwabacher of Bay St. Louis has used her vast experience in acting and directing to assemble a cast of six men and seven women who will play multiple roles in portraying the 40-some characters in the play.

The cast members — from Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Hancock County, Diamondhead and Pass Christian — range in age from teenagers to senior citizens. They are Amanda Acker, Clem Acker, Martin Booda, Jessie DiGiacomo, Joy Galloway, Joyce Graves, Sandy Higdon, Shannon Jenkins, Donna Oakley, Rachel Stanley, Marilyn Timms, Bryan Vonder Bruegge and Jim Welsh.

Several of them have 60 or more acting credits under their belts. A couple of them are "hitting the boards" for the first time. Three of them have been paid as extras in movies.

Schwabacher said the cast has bonded and developed a warm camaraderie.

She cited an example: "One scene goes from the church to the courtroom, and I'm trying to figure it out and I try it one way. Then someone said, 'I think this would work.' And it did."

A visitor at the Feb. 13 rehearsal, herself an accomplished actress, noted that the production still had two weeks of rehearsal time.

"From what I saw, it's ready for an audience now," she said.

Tickets are $7 for adults and $5 for students with ID at the door. Olde Towne Players will donate 50 percent of proceeds after expenses to the South Mississippi AIDS Task Force. For details, call 228-467-5563 or 228-452-7761.

U.S. Navy awards MPT $750,000 contract for Ramjet Technology

Mississippi Polymer Technologies, Inc. (MPT) announced that it has received a $750,000 Phase II Small Business Innovation Research contract from the U.S. Navy. The contract will focus on the use of Parmax® Self Reinforced Polymers (SRPs) as ablative materials in demanding ramjet combustor applications.

The ramjet combustor is the simplest of air-breathing engines and is designed typically for short, single flights. The engine is capable of developing tremendous thrust, but is limited by the high operating temperatures the ramjet materials must sustain. MPT expects that Parmax® SRP materials will be excellent for this application. "Parmax® SRP based composite material has the potential to solve many of the environmental and fabrication problems that exist with current state-of-the-art ablative insulative technologies," stated Dr. Roy Carter, the project's lead researcher.

MPT is a high performance polymers manufacturer located in Bay St. Louis, Mississippi. The company formed in 2000 for the purpose of producing and marketing its proprietary Parmax® SRP polymers.

MPT has a state-of-the-art facility that includes a production plant capable of producing 150,000 lb/yr. Commercial production of Parmax® 1201, MPT's initial product, is expected to begin in mid 2004.

Tourism group honors legislators at luncheon

The Mississippi Tourism Association (MTA) presented its 2003 "Legislative Friends of Tourism" award to Representative Sara Thomas (D-Indianola) and Senator Willie Simmons (D-Cleveland) for their diligence in passing legislation to open the B.B. King Museum in Indianola.

The awards were presented at MTA's annual Legislative Luncheon held Wednesday, at the Crowne Plaza Hotel in Jackson.

"Representative Thomas and Senator Simmons certainly deserve this recognition because, without their leadership, the bill to develop this exciting attraction would not have progressed as it has," said MTA president Beth Carriere of Bay St. Louis. "Through their efforts, Mississippi will soon have another reason to draw tourists to the state."

Also recognized for their assistance in the bill's passage were Lt. Governor Amy Tuck, Speaker of the House William McCoy, Representative James "Jim" Simpson, Representative May Whittington, Senator Robert "Bunky" Huggins, former Senator and current North Miss. Transportation Commissioner Bill Minor, Senator Alan Nunnelee, Representative Willie Bailey, Senator David Jordan, Representative Charlie Capps, Representative Bobby Howell and Representative Willie Perkins.

"We know that passing legislation is a true team effort," said Beau Whittington of Jackson, chairman for the MTA Legislative Committee. "We

The museum facility will be approximately 15,000 square feet upon completion and will be designed for an interactive and educational experience. The B.B. King Museum will be the only museum in the world officially sanctioned by B.B. King himself. The facility is projected to open in 2005, during the international celebration of B.B. King's 80th year as a musician and entertainer.

Through the telling of B.B. King's life story, developers see the museum as a way to showcase the origins of the Delta Blues, as well as the accomplishments of a man who has become a musician recognized around the world.

Mardi Gras showers the Gulf Coast with beads, doubloons and family fun

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Mississippi's Gulf Coast is gearing up for Mardi Gras 2004 with an entire month of parades, parties and festive balls beginning with the Elks Mardi Gras parade in historic downtown Ocean Springs, Jan. 31.

Weekend parades in all other Coastal cities will follow throughout the month of February. The grand finale is, of course, Fat Tuesday, Feb. 24, when several parades roll throughout the day and night in Gulfport and Biloxi.

Since the inception of Mardi Gras more than 300 years ago when it was first celebrated by Mississippi's Gulf Coast founder Pierre Le Moyne d'Iberville and his party of French explorers, Mardi Gras has grown in reputation, size, and revelry. Each year 100,000 visitors turn out for fun times on Mississippi's Gulf Coast.

The Southeast Tourism Society recently selected Mardi Gras on Mississippi's Gulf Coast as Festival of the Year in 2003. Also in 2003, the American Bus Association selected Mardi Gras on Mississippi's Gulf Coast as one of the Top 100 Events in North America.

OLA & SSC claim shutout wins in first round of playoffs

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

The Our Lady Academy Crescents (18-5-1) faced a familiar foe in the first round of the 1A-2A-3A state soccer playoffs on Tuesday - St. Andrews of Jackson. It was the first game of a twinbill at the Brother Phillip Memorial Athletic Complex in frigid conditions. The second game featured the St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws and the Petal Panthers. Both OLA and SSC are defending state champions in their respective classes.

OLA defeated St. Andrews 2-0. The Crescents took a 1-0 lead at halftime on a Rachel Cranford goal that was assisted by Lauren Goulet.

OLA added some insurance late in the second half, when Cranford fed a speeding Meghan Flynt who punched it through the net for the score and the 2-0 difference.

OLA head coach Danny Owens stated, "This was a tough opener for us. This is the same team that we have met in the state finals the last three years. St. Andrews played very hard tonight. We started out not playing our best soccer and switched to three forwards. Then, we started to play a bit harder. Our goal is to get better each game. As you go deeper in the playoffs, it becomes a game of who makes less mistakes and who capitalizes on the other team's mistakes."

OLA will be on the road on Saturday, January 31 against an undetermined foe.

In the nightcap, the St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws shutout the Petal Panthers 4-0 in first round playoff action.

SSC (21-3-1) came out of the gate a little slow but got stronger as the game went on. By halftime, the Rocks enjoyed a 2-0 lead. Kody Cannon put the Rocks on the board with an assist from Eric Cranford in the 26th minute. Soon after, Patrick Donohoe got his own tally to make the score 2-0 on an assist by Michael Kivlan.

Early in the second half, Cannon lit the scoreboard a second time on an assist by Michael Kivlan. The final goal was scored with less than two minutes in the game when Beau Brodtman sent one off the Petal goalie's foot off an assist by Austin Boudreaux.

SSC head coach Andy Kivlan commented, "They (Petal) stayed back and tried to prevent us from scoring and they did a good job for a bit. We got untracked late in the first half and early on in the second half. Our defense kept the ball on the Petal side of the field and didn't allow a legitimate shot on our goal all night. We had some other players step up and make shots for us tonight. Kody Cannon got two goals along with Patrick Donohoe and Beau Brodtman with one each. When we are able to spread the scoring around to different players like we did tonight, it gives other teams more players to defend against."

The Rocks will travel to Lucedale on Saturday, January 31, for a game with George County in the second round.

In earlier soccer action, the St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws blanked the Bay High Tigers 9-0 in the final regular season game for both teams.

SSC was led by Andrew Smith-Parker with four goals and Patrick Donohoe with two goals. Devin Caboni-Quinn, Eric Cranford, and Josh Lingsch all scored once for the Rocks.

Bay High finished the season at 10-7.

The Hancock Lady Hawks recorded a 3-1 win over the Lady Hornets of Poplarville in high school soccer action on January 26.

Martine Rorhus, Kesha Saucier, and Ryan Howry all scored for Hancock.

On January 23, the OLA Crescents lost to Newman High School of New Orleans 3-1. Laura Ellis scored the lone goal for OLA in the final regular season game for OLA.

The junior varsity Crescents played to a 0-0 tie with Newman. Amelia Simpson had the shutout in goal with four saves. The junior varsity ended the season with a record of 9-1-1. On January 22, the junior high Crescents defeated Biloxi 2-0. Shelby Wild and Jamie Reisch each scored for OLA.

Bri Johnston tallied the shutout and had five saves in the game.

The junior high Crescents ended the season undefeated at 10-0-1.

Rocks & Pirates win at HoopsFest '04

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

Three area teams participated in HoopsFest 2004 in the Mississippi Coast Coliseum on Saturday, January 24. Both St. Stanislaus and Pass Christian won their games while the Hancock Hawks dropped their contest with the Ocean Springs Greyhounds during the 10th annual event.

The Rocks improved to 18-5 overall with a 60-45 win over traditional 5A power Biloxi.

The Rocks and the Indians were tied 13-13 at the end of the first period; however, SSC surged to a 33-26 halftime lead after they switched to a zone defense. The defensive switch threw Biloxi into a confused state and allowed the Rocks to jump ahead of the bewildered Indians.

Mario Faranda led the way for SSC with 25 points while Darius Acker came off the bench to score 15 points and dish out 7 assists.

The Pass Christian Pirates held on for a 59-52 win over the Pascagoula Panthers. The Pirates used a 26-4 advantage in free throws to make the difference in the game. In the fourth quarter alone, the Pirates were a staggering 10-for-12 at the charity stripe.

Chad Musgrove led the Pirates with 19 points followed by the Billy Crawford with 16 points and John Childs with 11 points.

The Ocean Springs Greyhounds improved to 15-8 on the season with a 74-39 win over the Hancock Hawks. This was the Greyhounds fourth consecutive win during the annual event. Ocean Springs forced 23 turnovers in the game and nailed 8 three-pointers. They enjoyed a 35-16 lead at intermission. Joseph Yates led Hancock (4-14) with 10 points.

In other matchups at HoopsFest 2004, the Gautier Gators were harassed by the Gulfport Admirals 77-61. The Admirals were on a mission in the game as they nailed 7 three-pointers in the first period alone.

Gulfport Prep All-American Henry Salter tallied 33 points and had two monstrous dunks in the game to go along with five three-pointers.

Duran Eckford sank 30 points in the game for the Admirals. The St. John Eagles (6-15) defeated the Mercy Cross Crusaders (0-13) 49-40 behind solid free throw shooting. The Eagles nailed 8-of-10 free throws in the fourth quarter. Kevin Enroth scored 16 points and Jason Caswell 13 points for the Eagles.

The Moss Point Tigers (13-7) defeated the Harrison Central Red Rebels (14-8) on a basket by Tim McCrory with 3.5 seconds left in the game.

On Friday, January 23, the Hancock Lady Hawks (17-3) used a stifling defense to dispose of the Lady Admirals of Gulfport (14-6) 61-50.

The Lady Hawks held Gulfport scoreless for a little over seven minutes late in the game. Hancock led at halftime 47-44. Erica Moran recorded a double-double for Hancock with 20 points and 16 rebounds. Ashley Boehnel chipped in 21 points and 8 rebounds despite playing with four fouls for most of the game.

Necaise & Lee-McNelis return home to Mississippi as Memphis battles USM

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

When the University of Memphis Lady Tigers invade the Reed Green Coliseum on Monday, February 2, it will mark a homecoming of sorts for two Hancock County natives - head coach Joye Lee-McNelis and freshman point guard Devin Necaise.

Lady Tigers head coach Joye Lee-McNelis is a native of the Leetown area of Hancock county and starred for the Lady Hawks in women's basketball. She is in her 13th season at Memphis and is only the second coach in the history of the program. She has produced five 20-win seasons and has advanced to the post-season seven times.

Prior to becoming the head coach at Memphis, Lee-McNelis starred on the court for USM as a player and an assistant coach. She ended her playing career at USM as the school's sixth all-time leading scorer and coached in Hattiesburg from 1986-91. She was inducted into the USM Hall of Fame in 1997 along with former Hancock North Central great Brett Favre.

Necaise is a 5-5 true freshman point guard for the Lady Tigers and is the daughter of Pat and Paulette Necaise. She hails from Necaise Crossing and is a former star at Hancock High School. While at Hancock, Necaise led her team to a 25-9 record as a senior and an appearance in the State Tournament. She was chosen All-District, All-South State and All-Coast. Necaise ended her high school career with 2,000 points.

Necaise is averaging 22.8 minutes and 7.1 points per game and leads the team with 39% shooting from beyond the arc. She has drawn two starts and has played in all 19 games this season.

Lee-McNelis commented on Necaise, "Devin Necaise is a valuable player for us at the point guard position. Her leadership abilities have been the difference in keeping the team focused in tight situations. Her work ethic and grit has enabled her to be as successful as she is during her freshman campaign. I am very proud of what she has accomplished in what can be a difficult transition for a young player. Devin (Necaise) has earned the respect of the older players. To watch her mature has been extra special."

Two other Mississippi natives are returning home for the Lady Tigers, as well. Senior Princess Swilley of Hazelhurst will be appearing in her home state for the final time in her career. Junior Raven Rogers of Jackson Murrah leads the Lady Tigers in rebounding and will be showcasing her talent for her home state, as well.

The Lady Tigers are 11-6 overall and 1-3 in Conference USA play. The Lady Tigers of Memphis will battle the Lady Eagles of USM on Monday, February 2, at 7pm in the Reed Green Coliseum.

PRCC splits with Jones, sweeps East Mississippi

POPLARVILLE - Pearl River Community College split with arch-rival Jones in women's and men's MACJC non-division basketball action here Monday in M.R. White Coliseum.

The Lady Wildcats dropped to 10-8 overall and 4-3 in league play with an 80-62 setback to the Lady Bobcats, while the Wildcats took a 65-60 victory to improve to 12-5 overall and 5-2 in the division. JCJC's women improved to 10-7 and 5-2, while its men dropped to 13-4 and 4-3.

In women's action, Pearl River offense was seemingly non-existent in the first half, as the Lady Wildcats generated a meager 7 points in the first 11 minutes to trail JCJC 24-7 with 9:00 left before the intermission.

A minute later, Kim Winfrey of Oak Grove answered the effort with a bucket, but JCJC then went on a 12-7 tear to grab its biggest lead of the first half at 36-14 with 4:30 left. The Lady Wildcats finished the half with an impressive 13-4 run to cut the Lady Bobcats' lead to 40-27 at the intermission.

PRCC cut Jones' lead to 7 points twice in the second half. Winfrey's final score of the night made it 65-58 with 4:05 left, but Jones answered the surge with a 15-4 run to end the game.

Labat paced PRCC with 15 points.

In men's action, the Wildcats led the entire first half, but JCJC's Tim Broomfield hit his only trey of the night in the final seconds to cut PRCC's lead to 32-29 at the intermission.

Jones, which trailed by as many as 11 points in the first half, came out in the second half and played PRCC basket for basket. Marvin McDonald's trey with 12:15 left cut the Wildcats lead to 47-46, then Wildcat Ray Selva of Baton Rouge missed a pair of foul shots to set the stage for Gray Edwards' put back to give the Bobcats a 48-47 lead with 10:50 remaining.

Jason Simmons of Hattiesburg High answered with his only trey of the night to regain the lead for PRCC, but Jones managed to take brief 1-point leads 3 more times before Carlos Cole of Hattiesburg High scored to put PRCC up for good with 4:50 left.

Cole led the Wildcats with a game-high 18 points (5 rebounds), while Selva and Jeremy Goff of Picayune High added 12 each.

PRCC sweeps EM

Pearl River Community College swept East Mississippi in women's and men's MACJC non-division basketball action here Saturday in M.R. White Coliseum.

The Lady Wildcats pulled out an 81-76 victory to improve to 10-7 overall, while the Wildcats were 71-60 winners to improve to 11-5. The Lady Lions dropped to 4-14, while the Lions fell to 6-12.

snap a 69-69 stalemate and PRCC never looked back. EMCC managed to pull to within 1 off a pair of free throws by Willia Thomas with a minute remaining, but Labat answered with her final 3 pointer seconds later then Yolanda Hartfield of Hattiesburg High bucketed a foul shot to end the scoring.

Labat paced The River with a career-high 32 points (3 treys, 5 RB), while Kira Tillman added 17 (1 trey, 6 of 6 FT, 5 RB).

In men's action, PRCC led 33-24 at the half, outscored the Lions 38-36 in the second half to take the win. Pearl River led by as many as 10 points in the first half and as many as 15 in the second.

Larry Brackins added 11 (8 RB, 1 trey), Carlos Cole 4 (3 steals), Jacoby Rawls 4, and Gabe Willis, Jonathan Williams, Alvin Smith, and Kitt Jones, 2 each.
